☐ No protest accompanied the payment of additional search fees.

Box III TEXT OF THE ABSTRACT (Continuation of item 5 of the first sheet)

A method for sending data to a client to provide data-on-demand services, for example in a Cable Television System (120), comprises the steps of: receiving a data file, specifying a time interval, parsing the data file into a plurality of data blocks based on the time interval such that each data block is displayable during a time interval, determining a required number of time slots to send the data file, allocating to each time slot at least a first of the plurality of data blocks and optionally one or more additional data blocks, such that starting from any of the time slots, (i) the data file can be displayed by accessing the first of the plurality of data blocks, (ii) at a conservative time slot, a next block sequential to a prior displayed data block is available for displaying, and (iii) repeating step (ii) until all of the plurality of data blocks for the data file has been displayed, and sending the plurality of data blocks based on the allocating step.

BOX II. OBSERVATIONS WHERE UNITY OF INVENTION WAS LACKING

This ISA found multiple inventions as follows:

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack Unity of Invention because they are not so linked as to form a single inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1. In order for more than one species to be searched, the appropriate additional search fees must be paid. The species are as follows:

Fig 1A;
Fig 3; and Fig 4.

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Fig 3 - claims 1-4 & claims 11-13;
Fig 4 - claims 5-6 & claims 14-16; and
Fig 1A - claims 7-10

The following claims are generic: NONE

The species listed above do not relate to a single inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Claims 1-4 & claims 11-13 correspond to selecting data in response to a client's request by specifying a time interval and required number of time slots.

Claims 5-6 & claims 14-16 correspond to generating a scheduling matrix for sending a data file.

Claims 7-10 correspond to structure of data-on-demand system.

The species listed above do not relate to a single inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: .
